ISY22

Italian bathroom brand Zucchetti unveiled Isy22 at Salone del Mobile.Milano 2022.

Designed by Italian designer and architect Matteo Thun and Spanish designer Antonio Rodriguez, Isy22 celebrates the 20th anniversary of the iconic Isy* taps, remaining faithful to the original inspiration that guided the form and function of the former taps, while ascribing to contemporary design through using the latest material finishes.

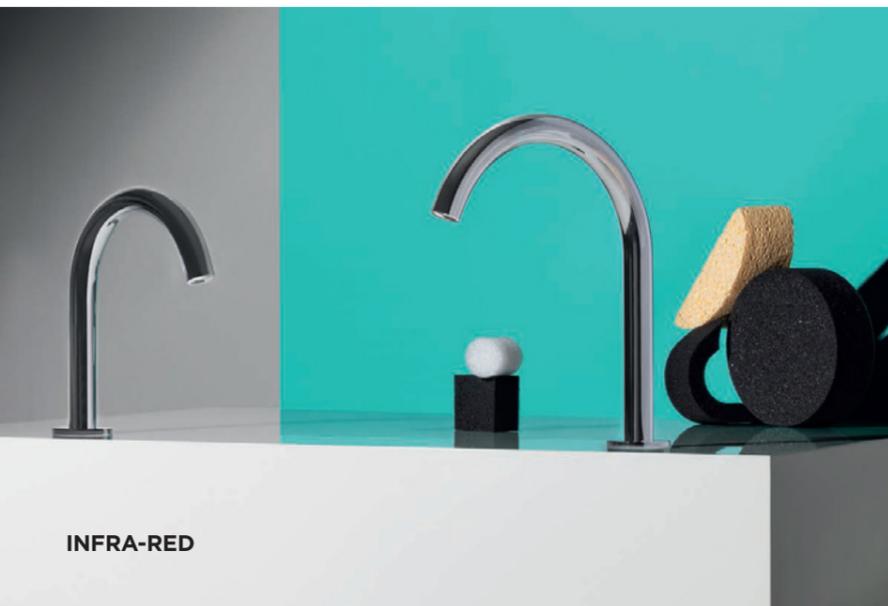

The Isy tap collection marked a revolution in bathroom design with simple and effective design mimicking the natural flow of water. This inspiration stays unchanged in the latest Isy22 collection, interpreted by the Matteo Thun & Partners duo to fit in with contemporary design with a renewed and original design - enhanced in size and character.

The tapware is sophisticated and balanced in size and shape. They comprise several collections, namely the single-lever mixer and the classic two handle version. Each of these collections come in varied finishes some of which are generic and some exclusive for each collection. Out of these, the Mediterranean blue finish stands out. The single lever mixer and two handle series with levers, washed in the intense and vibrant Mediterranean blue, instantly draw attention to themselves. On the other hand, the progressive mixer is washed in a combination of bold and bright colours, seeking again to grab attention.

Another addition in the Isy22 collection that differentiates it from its predecessor is the 'no touch' electronic tap. Cognizant of current times, this feature effectively meets the needs posed by today's lifestyle. A combination of minimalistic features, technologically advanced features and high-quality finishing gives Isy22 an unmistakable character that sets it apart as an iconic design for today and tomorrow.

MICHELLE WEIR - STUDIO:WEIR INTERIORS LTD

Affectionately known for its twin barns set perpendicular to one another, the Two Barns was designed by Space Studio as a luxury retreat and located in the historic Cardrona Valley.

Nestled into the gentle slope and across from the river at the base of the valley, the barns are situated to take in the dramatic landscape and draw on the valley's rich gold mining history for inspiration. Each barn has a purpose with the living quarters featuring a double height open ceiling and dramatic central window at one end with a courtyard at the other. In contrast, the second barn is divided into two stories, with ample accommodation, bathrooms, drying room, media room and garage.

The lean-to structure which connects the two barns uses Clutha stone and schist in the entrance and is juxtaposed with wide oak floorboards, tile and board and batten wall linings throughout the space. Generous, cosy furnishings and soft lighting create a feeling of warmth and comfort in the expansive open-plan space.
